Wall street had an unprecedented sell off today. Our models are still positive so we used this as an opportunity to buy some ETFs that we like at lower prices. Is it the Corona virus? Hoping this inspires US companies to move production away from China.

Its looking more like a Sanders victory for the Democrats. Wall street likely views Sanders vs Trump positively.

Understanding Generation X The name "Generation X" comes from a novel by Douglas Coupland, "Generation X: Tales for an Accelerated Culture," published in 1991. Though it's more useful for marketing than sociology, generational theory—the assumption that people born within the same time frame can be considered a group with similar views, values, tastes, and habits—and the idea of a generation gap has gained broad acceptance in the U.S. The American generations covered in the theory are:

- The Greatest Generation (born circa 1901 to 1924)
- Silent Generation (circa 1925 to 1945)
- Baby Boomers (circa 1946 to 1964)
- Generation X (circa 1965 to 1985)
- The Millennial Generation (circa 1985 to 2000).
